

Bernhard Jenschke

Bernhard Jenschke holds a doctoral degree from the University in Munich. He has been working in the guidance field for more than 40 years, last as head of the career guidance services of the German Public Employment Service in the Federal States Berlin and Brandenburg. He supported the establishment of career education in German schools and developed the later wide spread concept of a Career Information Centre (BIZ) based on the idea of activating clients through self-search and active use of information technology. He worked as international expert for ILO, OECD, Council of Europe and the European Union and has actively supported East and Middle European countries in developing their guidance services after the fall of the Iron Curtain.

Dr. Jenschke has contributed to the international co-operation in serving the IAEVG since 1983 as member of the Board of Directors and Vice President. 1999 -2006 he served as President of IAEVG. He edited the professional journal of the IAEVG "Educational and Vocational Guidance – Bulletin" 1983 - 2000 and was also a member of the Editorial Board of the International Journal for Educational and Vocational Guidance IJEVG. He is a co-founder of the German National Guidance Forum and a member of the German delegation for the European Lifelong Guidance Policy Network ELGPN. Dr. Jenschke was a keynote speaker at many international conferences, has written extensively on issues of career development and published in 2012 the "History of IAEVG 1951- 2011".
