

Jane Goodman

Dr. Goodman is Professor, Emerita, Counseling, at Oakland University in Michigan. She directed the Adult Career Counseling Center at Oakland for 10 years. She was 2001-2002 president of the American Counseling Association.

She is a past president and Eminent Career Awardee of the National Career Development Association, Fellow of ACA and NCDA, the author of several books, many articles and book chapters, mostly in the area of transitions and career development, including the Fourth Edition of Counseling Adults in Transition (with Anderson and Schlossberg) and the NCDA Case Book (with Niles and Pope).

She is the mother or stepmother of seven and has nine grandchildren on whom she dotes.